NUMB. 1745

FRIDAY, JUNE 5. 1741.

TO THE DAILY GAZETTEER.

It hath been advertised in some of the Daily Papers, of certain Meetings intended, in order, as insinuated, to raise Money for carrying on I know not what Prosecutions, touching the late Westminster Election; I conceive the publishing the following Resolutions (taken from and compared with the Votes) may be useful at least to the Common Gentlemen in the Practice of the Law, to publish them, or not, shall conclude, Sir, Your very humble Servant,

N. B.

Mercurii 26 Die Februarii 1703.

AT, according to the known Laws and Usage of Parliament, it is the sole Right of the Commons of England in Parliament assembled (except in those Cases provided for by Act of Parliament) to determine all Matters relating to the Election of their own Members.

AT, according to the known Law and Usage of Parliament, the Qualification of any Elector, or the Qualification of any Person elected, is Cognizable or Determinable by the Commons of England in Parliament assembled, except in such Cases as are provided for by Act of Parliament.

AT, the Examining and Determining the Qualification of any Elector, or any Person elected to Parliament, in any Court of Law, or elsewhere, before the Commons of England in Parliament assembled, except in such Cases as are specially provided for by Act of Parliament, will expose all Mayors, Bailiffs, and other Officers, who are obliged to take the Poll, to a Return thereupon, to Multiplicity of Accusations, Suits and insupportable Expences, and subject them to different and independent Jurisdictions, and inconsistent Determinations in the same without Relief.

We noticed to the Publick, several Robberies lately committed upon those of the Name of Rofs and Munro, particularly upon Munro, Tenant to Sir Robert Munro in Knocknear Dingwall, in the Month of December last, Cloud of Night, when they beat and bruised his almost to Death, thrusting her into a Chest; beat and plundered his House of all Effects; but deterred from carrying off the Money by reason of the Snow then lying on the Ground, which a Discovery behoved to be made: In March they broke down his Stable, and carried off four of these Robbers were, upon Information and Warrant, committed to the Prison of Tayne: Trial came on the 12th current, when, upon clear Evidence against John Down, alias MacEan in Strathgairn, in the Parish of Fotterty, as one of the Actors, and Part in the whole Robbery, the Jury brought in a Verdict of Guilty, and he was condemned to be hanged on the 27th of June next: And Donald MacLenan, Shoe-maker in the said Parish, having certain Points of Defence against him, was ordained to be whipped on the 27th. TO THE AUTHOR of the DAILY GAZETTEER.

There being a Prose Version of HORACE's Odes now publishing in Numbers, it was expected that if another was published, it would excel this, or at least equal it; but whether it does either, the Public may judge by comparing a few of the Odes, of which I now send you a Second.

The Version publishing in Numbers, and sold by J. Davidson.
BOOK I. ODE XIV.

IS it possible, infatuate Vessel, that you are again to hazard yourself on the stormy Seas? What are you doing? Sure it is better to remain in a safe Harbour; don't you observe yourself destitute of Oars, that your Masts are broken down with Tempests, and your Sail-yards miserably shattered; And can you imagine yourself capable to sustain the Fury of a Storm, when all your Tackle is thus gone to Ruin? When you have no Sails that are entire to carry you thro' it, nor any Gods, whose Aid you may invoke in the Time of your Distress; what will it avail you, that you are built of the finest Wood in the Forests of Pontus? It is in vain to boast of your Name and powerful Origin, nor will the affrightened Sailor place any Confidence in the Painting and Ornaments wherewith your Stern is embellished. Take care then, dear Vessel, that you make not yourself the Sport of the Winds, who hath but lately given me so much Uneasiness, and am now filled with great Concern and Anxiety, that you may happily escape those dangerous Seas, where these remarkable Islands the Cyclades lie scattered.

Pine-Tree, of a Family in Pontus, eminent with respect to others, as the Pine is above the other Trees in the Wood, and the Daughter of a noble Wood, of a most numerous Descent of noble Ancestors, boasts both of your noble Descent and Name of the Flacci, useless, not valued, at Rome.

The fearful Mariner now putteth no Confidence in painted Ships, Images of our Forefathers. The care of your self, that you may not become a Mocking-stock to the Winds.

O Ship, who have been of late an anxious Care to me, because of our long Discords and Fatigues of my Desire and chief Care, lest new Commotions should arise, avoid the Seas flowing between the ships the Cyclades, do not follow the Remains of a conquered Army with Cassius of Parma and Oenobarbus, Pompeius, sailing through the Cyclade Islands, safe enough to the Conqueror and his Fleet.

The other Version.

BOOK I. ODE XIV.

That a Civil War ought not to be rekindled! O Ship, tossed with the Civil Wars, new Waves of War will bring you back again into the Sea, in danger of your Safety; O what are you doing, thinking upon? Bravely, with all your might, rush to the Harbour, the Mercy of Augustus.

Do not you see, that both your Sides are bare, destitute of a Bank of Rowers, on this side Brutus, on that side Cassius being slain, and Sextus Pompeius, the Mait or Prop of the Commonwealth and Liberty, is wounded, has lost part of the Army by Shipwreck, by the swift Southwest Wind, and the Sail-yards, Auxiliary Troops, groan, lie prostrate, and the Beams and Keel of the Ship, the Legions, the Strength of the Army, are scarce able to endure the impetuous Sea, the stronger Army of Augustus, without Ropes, Provisions, Subsidies, Freight-Money, and Taxes, which are the Sinews of War?

Now you have not untorn Sails, the Estates you had from your Fathers, by the Proscription of Augustus, are in the Possession of Strangers, the Gods are not now propitious to you, whom you may invoke again when oppressed with so great Adversity: Although you are a Pontic

The Gentleman collar'd him, and call'd out, but nobody coming to his Assistance the Fellow got loose, and tho' the Gentleman pursu'd him, crying Stop Thief, yet the Rogue having a better Pair of Heels escaped.

The GRAND SPECIFICK
Cleaning and Strengthening the Reins,

A Medicine that hath gain'd
Credit, for these many Years it has been publish'd not one of the many Pretenders to cure the like at all hinder'd the just Reputation this first and only for these Purposes, hath obtain'd, by its most noble for it doth not only cure such difficult Cases, which no Medicine can: But in every ordinary Case, one Bottle do more real Good than four, that are sold by the mon Pretenders, as has been sufficiently attested by Persons of Worth and Reputation that have found the Effects, and declared it to Mr. Sandwell.

It may be certainly depended on as absolutely effectual for carrying off, by Urine, safely and speedily, all the of secret Injuries, Remains of pernicious unskillful Mercurials, Gleet or Weakness, thro' tedious or ill
Cures of the Venereal Disease; or from Self-pollution, indurate Coition, &c.

Also any Weaknesses of the Vessels from Wrenches, Blows, or Falls, and all other Obstructions in the Passages, even Stranguries, Ulcers, &c. are perfectly by it, be they of ever so long standing; which Reliefs Ailments are, in Part, discovered by the following ptoms, viz. Weakness and Pain in the Back, a Sharpness Urine, its strong Smell, Films or Hairs as it were about in it, and, in some, too frequent Omission to urine.

This noble Specifick is also of singular and very common Use and Efficacy, where there is any Gravel, or small Stones, Slime, or any other Matter that obstructs Urine, bringing all away in a few Times taking, with and to the very great Satisfaction of the Patients, as has happily experienced by great Numbers of both Sexes, and particularly by a Gentleman, whose Case has so often been mentioned in this Advertisement, by a Certificate of his who, on taking but a little of this noble Specifick, above an Ounce of Gravel, and was cured of an insupportable Pain about his Loins, &c. by a short Continuance of it.

It also strengthens and recovers, after a particular Manner, all Relaxations of the Vessels, confirms the Parts, brings into Order, and thereby perfects the Cure to Admiration.
is a very pleasant Medicine, and will be found of con-Benefit to Mankind, beyond Expectation, which is the son of its being made publick, and to obviate the of Pretenders in all the difficult Cases above-mentioned.

One Bottle, in most Cases, is sufficient for it.
as you will see by the Directions given with it.

Sold at 7 s. 6 d. the Bottle, at Mr. Sandwell's, Top of the Griffin, the Corner of Bucklersbury, in the Poultry.

the DAILY GAZETTEER.

WAS tempted by the Shortness of the Preface to peruse a Piece lately publish'd, which afforded me both Entertainment and Instruction, as I am very apt to think it will to not a few of your Readers; and therefore desire you will give the Preface a Place in your Paper.

I am, S I R, &c.

Book is intitled, A Short Account of a late in Tuscany, Rome, and other Parts of Italy, Preface is as follows; viz.

THE Reason of offering this Account of a Tour thro' some Part of Italy (after so many Relations have been given of the Whole) is the Manner in which it is written.

The Authors are Two young Persons who went out to improve themselves in Painting, and they represented every Thing in so lively a Manner, you will imagine you see so many Pictures: The first into the Campagna di Roma from Tuscany is the Landkip; the Hills, the Flat Country, the Temples full in view. The same may be said of the Public Shows and Processions: Here you will find the Festival of St. Anthony of Padua, a grand Horse, Mules, and Asses driven to a Town, perfect Health, in order to be sprinkled with Holy Water, to preserve them from Hurt; but returning thence blest and crippled, and their Owners the same time highly satisfied with paying their Taxes, and the Labours of the Day. In passing such a Shew of Brute-Animals to one of a different Kind, you will see a Titular Monarch, a Lady, and a Couple of Cardinals in a Balcony, Emuities are attentive to a Masquerade Procession, the Monarch has his Hat flouched over his eyes, seems pensive and dejected; the Lady flings her arms about his Waist, and endeavours to divert his Grief; all the while five hundred People in the background upon him, holding up their Hands, and crying out Il fantasma viro! A most holy Man!

These whimsical Scenes you will meet with melancholy ones. This City, which was once Mistress of all the Riches of the then known World, is now so poor, that, to change a Pistol in a House, you must buy Half the Value in Goods, and the rest in several Bank Notes, each of the Value of Half a Crown Sterling. The Country also about it, which was once the Garden of the World, lies now almost entirely uncultivated, the very infected by the Decay of those stupendous Temples by which the Streams of the Alps were conveyed to Rome: Five of those out of Seven are in Ruin; and as the waste Water, which does so much mischief by stagnating in the Country, is greatly increased in the City to clear their Common Sewers, it is probable that in a few Years both the Town and all the Neighbourhood may be perfectly uninhabited, and, like the former Babylon, a Haunt of Monsters and Beasts of Prey; and this entirely occasioned by a delightful Religion, which, it is said, gains Ground, even in this Country, such a Thing can be believed!

the Author of the DAILY GAZETTEER.

I am very much pleased with the Article in one of your Papers, last Week, which gave an Account of the Relation of our Glorious Admiral's Letter about the taking of Carthage, and at the same time shews how good as he is Great: I have lately met with a Piece of Intelligence of the same Sort, which I afforded me no small Satisfaction. A Lady was a Boy of about Twelve Years of Age, who came with Capt. Laws and said he had been a good while on Admiral VERNON's own Ship, How they be in that Ship? On Madam, said he, every Day is like Sunday here. There are Prayers in the Morning, and Prayers in the Afternoon, and the same Prayers as they have in the Churches here: Every Day in the Week, Madam, on board the Admiral's Ship is like Sunday in England, for all the World.

I am, Sir, Yours, &c.

I R E L A N D.

Dublin, May 30. The Hon. Col. Price Governor of the Royal Hospital near Kilmalmainham, Dean Cotterel, Capt. Folliott and his Lady are arriv'd here from England.

Last Thursday the Remains of the Lord Thomond was carry'd to be interred at Limerick, the Burying-Place of his noble Ancestors. All the Gentlemen at the Funeral had Linen Scarves and Irish Cambrick Handkerchiefs.

The same Day dy'd James Nesbit, Esq; of the King's County.

Next Day the Yacht sail'd for England with Mrs. Wainwright, Widow of the late Baron, &c. and with the Return of the Vessel are expected Lord Tullamore and his Lady together with the Right Hon. Wm. Conolly, Esq; and Lady Anne Conolly.

Last Wednesday and Yesterday we had Letters from different Parts, of the excessive great Rejoicings all over the Kingdom, upon Admiral Vernon's great Success at Carthage. The same Evening we receiv'd the News, the Right Hon. the Lord Viscount Kingland had his House at Turvey illuminated from Top to Bottom, there being twenty-one large Windows in the Square of each Floor, and Bonfires all round it, which made a grand and beautiful Appearance. At Drogheda, the Rejoicings were very great; and, one Lady of that Town who wore blue Ribbons in Honour of Admiral Vernon's being Vice Admiral of the Blue, obliged all the other Ladies to throw their Ribbons into the Bonfires that were not of that Colour, which they very readily agreed to, and even some threw in their Caps, Handkerchiefs, &c. for Joy.

We have an Account from Armagh, that on Monday Evening last Mr. Cope, Knight of the Shire for that County, having received an Express at Loughgall of the Taking of Carthage, he gave two Barrels of Ale to his Town's-People, and by the prodigious Fire made on his Hill, communicated this glorious Action to the Country twenty Miles round him the same Evening.

Extract of a Letter from Dundalk, May 28.

I never saw any Town in my Life more loyal than this. On Thursday Night they began to fire the Cannon of the Town, which lasted till Six o'Clock next Morning, all the Houses were illuminated, and above fifty Bonfires in the Street; the Gentlemen in the Town had an Entertainment at the Tavern, and allow'd Plenty of Drink to the Populace; there was scarce a House had their Windows whole in the Morning, with the firing off the Guns in the Street.

Extract of a Letter from Waterford, May 27.

Upon receiving the Confirmation of the agreeable News of the taking of Carthage, it is impossible to express the Joy that was shewn here, each Inhabitant vying who should excel in Bonfires, Illuminations, &c. the Army fired three Volleys, and Capt. Gee, commanding Officer here, gave a Guinea to each Company to drink his Majesty's Health, Success to Admiral Vernon, &c.
